GLEN TAYLOR

OWNER

On March 23, 1995, Glen Taylor closed the deal that made him majority owner of the Minnesota Timberwolves. He added the title of NBA owner to a list that already included international businessman, state senator, entrepreneur, philanthropist and executive of the year.

Before he even completed his first full year season as owner, Taylor set in motion his plan for making a mark on the Minnesota sports scene. Prior to the completion of the sale of the team from Marv Wolfenson and Harvey Ratner, Taylor installed Rob Moor, Roger Griffith and Chris Wright to run the business functions of the franchise, and promoted Minnesota and NBA basketball legend Kevin McHale to develop the team. With the move of McHale to vice president of basketball basketball operations and the addition of general manager Jim Stack and head coach Randy Wittman, Taylor has assembled a basketball staff with years of experience in the pro ranks.

Taylor is Chairman of the Board of Taylor Corporation, located in Mankato, Minn., 75 miles southwest of the Twin Cities. The Taylor Companies, which are involved in the printing, marketing and electronics industries, include more than 70 operating divisions in 19 states, three Canadian provinces, the United Kingdom, France, Australia and Mexico. Their employees number more than 13,000, including more than 6,000 Minnesotans.

Taylor built his company from modest beginnings. While a student at Mankato State University in 1959, he took a part-time job at Carlson Wedding Service, Fifteen years later, in 1974, he acquired a majority interest in the company, laying the foundation for what would soon grow into Taylor Corporation.

Taylor's business savvy has been recognized by Corporate Report magazine, which honored him as its Executive of the Year (1987), and the Sales and Marketing Executives of Minneapolis/St. Paul, who awarded him with their Sales Executive of the Year Award (1999). He was also inducted into the Minnesota Hall of Fame (2002) by Twin Cities Monthly Magazine. On June 17, 2006, Taylor received an award from the Starkey Hearing Foundation at the organization's "So the World May Hear" awards gala in St. Paul. In addition to providing financial assistance to Starkey, Taylor and his family have participated in missions in to Africa, and Central America to support the Starkey Hearing Foundation.

Taylor was elected to the Minnesota Senate in 1980, where he served until 1990. He became assistant Senate minority leader in 1982. From 1984 to 1986, he served as Senate minority leader. While in the Senate, Taylor was instrumental in providing leadership in the areas of higher education, child care and economic development policies.

Through personal involvement, Taylor has remained active in many civic and charitable causes. In Mankato, he has served as YMCA President, Chamber of Commerce Director, Mankato Jaycees President and United Way Campaign Chairman. He has also has served on his church's board of deacons and board of trustees and on the Mankato State University Foundation board of directors. On the state level, Taylor has served as the director of the Minnesota Business partnership, director of the Greater Minnesota Corporation and president of the International Thermographers Association.

Nationally, Taylor has provided expert testimony on business and child care issues to the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives and served as a committee chair on the 1991 Commission on Reform and Efficiency (CORE).

In 1997, Mankato State University awarded Taylor his first honorary doctorate. Taylor received the degree of Honorary Doctor of Laws for his distinguished professional career and volunteer service. In October 2001, Taylor was inducted into the Minnesota State University, Mankato Hall of Distinction.

Taylor was born April 20, 1941, and raised on a farm 60 miles west of his current home in Mankato. He graduated from Comfrey (Minn.) High School in 1959. In just three years, he earned his bachelor's degree in mathematics, physics and social science from Mankato State University. He later continued his education at the Harvard Graduate School of Business.

Taylor lives in Mankato with his wife Becky. His children, Terri, Jean, Taylor Moor, Jeff, and Kendahl, and grandchildren, Andrea, Melissa, Grayson, Emma and Abby, and great-granddaughters, Piper and Riley and Savanah, enjoy attending many of the Timberwolves and Lynx games.

ROB MOOR

CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER

Rob Moor became chief executive officer of the Minnesota Timberwolves in 2004 following 10 years as the team's president. While reorganizing the Timberwolves and building a first-class staff, Moor was also involved in securing a WNBA franchise for Minnesota in 1998 and, in 2004, leading the effort to form Midwest Entertainment Group and manage Target Center until the spring of 2007.

RING THE BELL TV on Archive.org

This season marks Wright's 18th year with the Timberwolves organization and fourth as the team's president. Wright is responsible for the day-to-day operations of the team.

He leads a senior management group that is responsible for setting the strategic direction of the business operations of the franchise. By developing a culture where everyone understands their role and supports each other, Wright and his senior management team are integrating the business and basketball operations to meet the strategic and financial goals of the team.

As president, Wright also articulates the mission of the organization, which is to surround fans with the world-class athleticism and complete entertainment of the NBA and WNBA. Whether coming to the arena, watching a game on television, purchasing a ticket online, or meeting players and staff in the community, Timberwolves fans know that they are the sole focus of the organization's efforts. To fulfill this mission, Wright has established company-wide priority around an unwavering work ethic, valuing excellence and being active members of the community..

A native of England, Wright came to the United States in 1978. Prior to joining the Timberwolves, he spent three years working for the state of Minnesota, first as a consultant working on bids for major national and international events, including the programming of the $17.4 million National Sports Center in Blaine, Minn. Wright, who graduated from Carnegie College of Physical Education in Headingly Leeds, Yorkshire, England, is very involved in and consults with many local charities and youth sports programs. He was elected to and serves on the board of the Minneapolis Downtown Council and the Minneapolis Regional Chamber of Commerce. He resides in Eden Prairie, Minn., with his wife, Walla, their sons Jeff and Ned, and their daughter, Christy.

KEVIN McHALE

VP OF BASKETBALL OPERATIONS

Kevin McHale's constant desire to improve the Timberwolves and his single-minded focus to win mirrors the attitude he exhibited during his Hall of Fame career with the Boston Celtics.

This past summer saw plenty of activity from McHale and the Timberwolves basketball department. The biggest transaction came on July 31, 2007, when McHale and the Wolves made the difficult decision to trade star forward Kevin Garnett to the Boston Celtics. In return, the Wolves received one of the best young post players in the NBA in Al Jefferson and other promising young players in Gerald Green, Ryan Gomes and Sebastian Telfair. This trade also netted the Wolves veteran center Theo Ratliff and two future first round draft picks.

In the 2007 NBA Draft, McHale selected University of Florida stars Corey Brewer and Chris Richard. In addition, the club acquired veteran forward Juwan Howard in a trade in mid-June.

In the summer of 2006, McHale drafted Randy Foye, an explosive guard from Villanova in the first round of the 2006 NBA Draft and hard-nosed forward Craig Smith from Boston College in the second round. Foye was named to the 2006-07 All-Rookie First Team and Smith earned a spot on the 2006-07 All-Rookie Second Team.

On February 12, 2005, McHale added the title of head coach to his already impressive resume, becoming the sixth bench leader in team history. Under McHale, the Wolves went 19-12 down the stretch.

One of McHale's most heralded moves came on May 11, 1995 when he selected high-school phenom Kevin Garnett with the fifth overall pick in the 1995 NBA Draft. Considered a bold move at the time, the Wolves were rewarded with 12 outstanding seasons from Garnett.

McHale has had a history of success in the game of basketball. In high school, he led Hibbing to the Minnesota Class AA State Basketball Tournament title game. In college, he posted a career average of 15.2 points and 8.5 rebounds per game in four seasons at the University of Minnesota, earning first-team All-Big Ten honors in 1979 and 1980. And in the pro ranks, he joined the Boston Celtics for three NBA championships, the first coming in his rookie season with the team.

McHale continued that tradition of quick success with the Timberwolves, moving from special assistant in 1993-94 to assistant general manager in 1994-95 to vice president of basketball operations. In that role, McHale is responsible for the team's entire basketball operations department, overseeing player personnel decisions, scouting and the coaching staff.

In McHale's first season with the Wolves, 1993-94, he served as a special assistant to the coaching staff. That position utilized the experience of his lengthy basketball career, which culminated in the retiring of his pro, college and high-school game jerseys. In August 1994, he was promoted to a newly created position of assistant general manager.

Prior to coming to the Timberwolves organization, McHale played 13 seasons as a power forward for the Celtics before retiring in the spring of 1993. A first-round selection (third overall) by Boston in the 1980 NBA Draft, McHale helped lead the Celtics to three NBA championships (1981, 1984 and 1986), five Eastern Conference titles and eight Atlantic Division crowns. He was voted the NBA's top sixth man twice (1984, 1985) and was selected to the All-NBA First Team in 1987. He was also named to the NBA All-Defensive First Team three times (1986, 1987 and 1988). The 6-10 forward/center averaged 17.9 points and 7.3 rebounds in 971 career regular-season games. He shot 55.4 percent from the floor and 79.8 percent at the free throw line. In 169 playoff contests, McHale increased his averages to 18.8 points and 7.4 rebounds.

On Oct. 1, 1999, Kevin McHale was recognized for his achievements with the Celtics by being inducted into the Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass. In the typical McHale style, he gave credit to his teammates for helping him to get there. But no one goes into the Hall of Fame without a lot of hard work and personal accomplishment.

In addition to being named to the Basketball Hall of Fame, McHale has received other honors for his basketball prowess. On July 8, 2000, he was inducted into the National High School Sports Hall of Fame. During the 1997 All-Star Game in Cleveland, he was honored as one of the NBA's Top 50 Players for the league's first half-century. On Feb. 18, 1995, he was honored as the top player in U of M men's basketball history, as the school celebrated its 100th anniversary in the sport.

McHale and his wife, Lynn, along with their five children, Kristyn, Michael, Joseph, Alexandra and Thomas, reside in North Oaks, Minn.

RANDY WITTMAN

HEAD COACH

Randy Wittman took over the head coaching duties of the Minnesota Timberwolves on Jan. 23, 2007. This is Wittman's second stint as a head coach in the NBA. He served as head coach of the Cleveland Cavaliers for two seasons (1999-2001), where he compiled a 62-102 record.

"Randy has a commanding presence in our locker room and we believe he is the best man to lead the Minnesota Timberwolves," said Vice President of Basketball Operations Kevin McHale. "We have the utmost confidence in Randy as a leader and have no doubt that he will return the organization to the prominence we had a couple of seasons ago."

In May of 2006, Wittman returned for his third stint with the Timberwolves coaching staff. He spent the 2005-06 season as an assistant coach with the Orlando Magic after serving in the same capacity with the Wolves from 2001-05.

Wittman was with the Timberwolves for five seasons (1994-99) as an assistant coach before being named head coach of the Cavaliers. Wittman orginally came to Minnesota from the Dallas Mavericks, where he spent the 1993-94 season as an assistant coach. He also served one season (1992-93) as an assistant coach with the Indiana Pacers.

A 1983 graduate of Indiana University, Wittman played nine seasons in the NBA. He was a first-round draft choice of the Washington Bullets but was dealt to the Atlanta Hawks prior to the start of the 1983-84 campaign. During his NBA playing career, Wittman saw action with the Hawks, Sacramento Kings and Pacers. He averaged 7.4 points per game, shooting 50.1 percent from the floor in 543 career games.

A two-time academic All-American at Indiana, Wittman was a member of the Hoosiers' 1981 NCAA championship team and was named co-Big Ten Player of the Year as a senior in 1983.

Wittman was honored in November 1995 with induction into the University of Indiana Hall of Fame. In March 1996 he was named to the Indiana Silver Anniversary Basketball Team. A native of Indianapolis, Wittman and his wife, Kathy, have two children, Ryan and Lauren.

Stack spent the 2003-04 campaign as an advance scout with the Knicks. Before his stint in New York, Stack spent three years as an assistant coach with the Pacers, beginning with the 2000-01 season.

During Stack's 13-year tenure with Chicago, the team won six NBA titles and established a record for most wins in a season, with 72 regular-season wins in 1995-96. Stack last served as the Assistant Vice President of Basketball Operations for the Bulls for four years after being promoted from his previous job as Special Assistant to the Vice President of Basketball Operations, where he spent eight years. As the Special Assistant, his duties included scouting on all levels, contract negotiations and analysis. Stack played an active role in the acquisition of every Bulls player, and his duties also included free agent scouting and all playoff advance scouting. Stack began as a scout with the Bulls organization prior to the 1988-89 campaign.

Upon his 1983 graduation from Northwestern University, Stack was drafted by the Houston Rockets in the sixth round (117th overall) in the 1983 NBA Draft. He spent five years playing professionally with teams in Belgium, Israel and France.

FRED HOIBERG

ASSISTANT GENERAL MANAGER

On April 17, 2006, Fred Hoiberg announced his retirement from the NBA and joined the Timberwolves' front office staff. Hoiberg enters his second year as assistant general manager. He will have duties and responsibilities relating to both the Timberwolves' basketball department and business operations. NOVEMBER (6-8)

Minnesota began its 18th campaign with a new point guard, Mike James, and two highly touted rookies in Randy Foye (selected out of Villanova) and Craig Smith (selected from Boston College). The Wolves picked up their seventh consecutive Opening Day win and 12th consecutive win in a Home Opener with a 92-83 triumph over Sacramento on Nov. 1. They followed the win up with a 112-109 victory at Denver on Nov. 3. The next three games of their West Coast road trip didn't go as well. On Nov. 4, Minnesota dropped a close one in Portland, 86-88, before losing to Sacramento (81-93) and the L.A. Lakers (88-95) on Nov. 6 and 7, respectively. The Timberwolves returned home to split games against the Magic (Nov. 11) and Trailblazers (Nov. 14). The 98-109 loss to the Magic was the team's fourth straight, but Ricky Davis led the way with 27 points in the 101-89 win against the Trailblazers. A road and home back-to-back set at Cleveland and New Orleans/Oklahoma City followed. The Cavs took the first game 76-92 and the Hornets followed it up with a 96-99 triumph despite Kevin Garnett's 22-point and 17-rebound effort. A 107-89 home win against the Knicks on Nov.22 started a three-game winning streak that also included wins at New Orleans/Oklahoma City (86-79 - Nov. 24) and against the Clippers (104-96 - Nov. 25) that brought the team even at 6-6. However, November ended with road losses to Dallas, 87-93 (Nov. 27), and Houston, 75-82 (Nov. 28), to leave the Wolves at 6-8 for the opening month of the season.

DECEMBER (7-7, 13-15)

December started out with a 92-106 loss at home to Denver before the Wolves would rattle off four consecutive victories. The wins were at Philadelphia (95-84), against Houston (90-84) and Utah (110-103) and at Chicago (91-81). Against Utah on Dec. 8, Kevin Garnett became the first Timberwolves player to notch 30 points that season (31) and also snared 14 rebounds. Following the winning streak was a four-game losing streak at San Antonio (82-85) and Milwaukee (104-108), and against the L.A. Lakers (94-111) and Milwaukee (107-113) which left Minnesota with a 10-13 record. The team went 3-2 the rest of the month with wins at Indiana (78-71), and against Chicago (100-98) and Seattle (101-82). The losses came on the road at the hands of the Raptors (97-100) and the Nets (92-100). The Timberwolves finished the month at 7-7 and were 13-15 overall.

JANUARY (9-8, 22-23)

Minnesota opened the New Year with plenty of fireworks as the team won its first four contests and seven of the first eight. On New Year's Day the team was in Charlotte and produced a 102-96 victory behind Kevin Garnett's 32 points and 14 rebounds. They followed it up with the first of three consecutive overtime wins at home against San Antonio (Jan. 3) as Mark Blount scored 28 points as the Spurs went down 103-101 in OT. Philly was next in line on Jan. 5 as Randy Foye handed out 10 assists in the 104-102 overtime win. The streak concluded with a 103-99 triumph against Houston on Jan. 7 with Garnett tallying 26 points and 13 rebounds. A fourth overtime game was narrowly missed when the Clippers ended the Wolves winning streak with a 92-91 win. Minnesota responded with three more wins in a row, at Memphis (116-110), against New Jersey (109-98) and at Detroit (94-90) in overtime. At the time the team was at 20-16. The Wolves then dropped their next six contests, starting with two at home to the Hawks (88-105) and the Pistons (98-104 in double overtime). From there it was a five game West Coast trip where the club would lose the next four at Phoenix (102-131), Utah (91-106), Portland (98-101 in overtime) and Seattle (100-102). On Jan. 23, between the games at Utah (Jan. 22) and Portland (Jan. 24), the Wolves relieved Dwane Casey of his head coaching responsibilities and promoted assistant coach Randy Wittman. Wittman picked up his first win as Minnesota's head coach with a 101-87 score against the L.A. Clippers on Jan. 27. They followed that up with a 121-112 win on Jan. 29 against Phoenix. Kevin Garnett tallied a Wolves season-high 44 points in that contest. January was closed out with a narrow 98-100 defeat at the hands of the Sacramento Kings. Minnesota finished the month with a 9-8 mark, which moved them just one game below .500. They also participated in six overtime contests, including one double overtime game, going 4-2 in the extra session games.

FEBRUARY (4-8, 26-31)

The Wolves hit the road for the first three games of February and came up short in each of those contests. On Feb. 2, they faced off against the Hornets and lost 83-90 as the front end of a back-to-back that also included the Mavericks. The next night it was a one-point defeat at the hands of Dallas that spoiled a 25 point and 20 rebound effort from Kevin Garnett. The road trip concluded with a 77-105 loss against Houston. Minnesota was home for seven of the last nine February games starting with their 121-93 win on Feb. 7 against Golden State. Another overtime game, in Memphis on Feb. 9, was a tough 97-105 loss. The Wolves stayed unbeaten at home in February with a 109-107 last-second win over Boston and a 99-94 win over Denver. They suffered a 100-112 loss in Washington following the All-Star break before returning to Minnesota for four home games to end February. They lost 95-100 to Charlotte and 104-116 to Phoenix before getting revenge on Washington with a 98-94 win. The last game of the month was also the lowest scoring output of the season for the Wolves as they lost 65-91 against Dallas. Overall, Minnesota was 26-31 after a 4-8 February.

MARCH (4-11, 30-42)

Minnesota lost consecutive games at the start of March, against Utah (83-109) and at Boston in double overtime (117-124). Another double-overtime game resulted in a win against the Lakers on March 6 (117-107). In those games Ricky Davis had 35 and 33 points, respectively. The Wolves headed south for games against Miami (91-105) and Atlanta (93-99) but came up empty. They rebounded at home for an 86-81 win against the Pacers before a five-game road-trip took the squad West. They lost four of five on the road, but picked up a 95-89 win at Sacramento on March 21. Rookie Randy Foye tallied 24 points in the win. The club returned to Target Center for a buzzer-beating 94-93 win over the Trail Blazers on March 25, but suffered a 106-114 loss to Seattle a couple nights later. Another road game in a month dominated by games outside of the Twin Cities (nine, the most of any month in the 2006-07 season) found the Wolves in Utah where they fell 102-108. Minnesota returned home for the final game of March on the 30th, but fell to the defending NBA champion Miami Heat 77-92 to finish the month at 4-11 and 30-42 overall.

APRIL (2-8, 32-50)

April had the Wolves scheduled for 10 games in 18 days, including six contests at Target Center. In familiar fashion, Minnesota went into overtime on April 1 against the Orlando Magic. Ricky Davis scored 36 in helping the Wolves to a 105-104 win. Kevin Garnett led the club with 14 rebounds and eight assists. The game was followed by an 88-101 loss to Cleveland on April 3. Randy Foye led the way with 19 points in the team's second win of the month, a 99-94 game at New York on April 6. It was tougher from there as the team lost the next four at home against the Hornets (94-96), Raptors (100-111), Mavericks (88-105) and Spurs (91-110). The team went on the road to Golden State where Ricky Davis' season-high 42 points weren't enough against the Warriors who won 121-108. Next up was a visit to Denver where the Nuggets came out ahead 107-122. In that game the Wolves rookie duo of Randy Foye and Craig Smith each had nine rebounds to top the squad. The curtains fell on the 2006-07 campaign with Memphis making their first and only visit to Minnesota on April 18. Randy Foye had 26 points in a 94-116 loss that left the team 2-8 in the month of April. Overall, the Wolves were 32-50 and one game under .500 at home with a 20-21 mark.

ACTIVE ROSTER SIZE
Each team agrees to have twelve players on its Active List and to have a minimum of eight players on the bench for all regular season games. Any team may from time to time as appropriate, but for no more than two consecutive weeks at a time during the regular season, have eleven players on its Active List.

INACTIVE ROSTER SIZE
Each team agrees to have one player on its Inactive List for all regular season games. Any team may from time to time as appropriate, but for no more than two consecutive weeks at a time during the regular season, have no players on its Inactive List.

TEN-DAY CONTRACT
On Jan. 5, 2008, a team may sign a player to a 10-day contract. No player may be signed to more than two 10-day agreements.

TRADING DEADLINE
No trades are permitted after 2:00 p.m. Central time on Feb. 21, 2008. From that point to the end of the regular season, player additions must be made through waiver procedure, or by signing free agents.

GUARANTEED CONTRACT DATE
On the 56th day of the regular season, all player contracts become guaranteed for the remainder of the season.

UNRESTRICTED FREE AGENT
A player who is free to sign with any team.

RESTRICTED FREE AGENT
If a free agent is "restricted," then his prior team has a "right of first refusal" that enables it to match an offer made to the free agent by another team. Thus if a restricted free agent wishes to sign with a new team he must first present his prior team with an "offer sheet" that contains the terms of his proposed contract with the new team. The prior team then has seven days to decide whether it will sign the player on the terms contained on the offer sheet or let the player sign with the new team.

OPTIONS
A provision negotiated in a contract that allows that contract to be extended one year beyond the scheduled end of that contract. The negotiated option can be either a team or player option.

NBADL WORK ASSIGNMENTS
An NBA team may at any time assign a player on its Active List or Inactive List to a NBA Development League ("NBADL") team, provided that the player has either zero or one years of service at the time of the assignment. Upon such assignment ("NBADL Work Assignment"), the player will be placed on the NBA team's Inactive List, and shall report to the NBADL team (and render for the NBADL team such services as the player is required to render for the NBA team under his Uniform Player Contract), and at the direction of the NBA team, subsequently return and report to, and resume the performance of services for, the NBA Team. An NBADL Work Assignment commences when the player reports in-person to the NBADL team, and ends either when the player, upon being recalled, reports back to his NBA team or when the NBADL season concludes. No player will be given more than three NBADL Work Assignments during any NBA season.

NBA PLAYOFF FORMAT

A total of 16 teams qualify for the NBA playoffs: the six division winners and the next five teams in each conference according to their won-lost record, regardless of division. For the 2008 NBA Playoffs, the first four seeds in each conference will continue to be given to the three division winners and the team with the next best regular season record. but these four teams will now be seeded in order of their regular season record. This change will ensure that the two teams with the best records in the conference will not meet earlier than the Conference Finals.

Each round is best-of-seven games. In every series, the home-court advantage in the extra game goes to the team with the better record during the regular season. Thus, if a division winner plays a second-place team from another division that had a better record, the second-place team would get home-court advantage.

In determining the playoff matches, the eight qualifiers are ranked Teams 1 through 8 (see note below). The playoff pairings for the First Round are teams 1-8, 2-7, 3-6, and 4-5 in each conference. In the conference semifinals, the winner of teams 1-8 plays the winner of teams 4-5 and the winner of teams 2-7 plays the winner of teams 3-6.

The NBA Finals will be played on a 2-3-2 basis, the team with the better regular-season record getting the home-court advantage for the first and last two games. All other series are 2-2-1-1-1.

FASTBREAK
Foundation

A spirit of giving and community involvement has helped define the Timberwolves organization for 18 years. The Minnesota Timberwolves FastBreak Foundation has remained a steady community partner by contributing thousands of dollars and hundreds of player appearances to help charitable causes in our region.

The mission of the FastBreak Foundation is to provide and support hands-on programs that positively impact Minnesota youth. Through giving, education, and basketball opportunities, the Foundation enables young people to make responsible decisions, contribute to their future and experience life-long memories.

Each month during the season, the FastBreak Foundation will focus on a specific area of giving. The month will feature events, programs and a $10,000 grant to an organization that best fits the theme and fulfills the mission of the Foundation.
